

FleetOwner

Mansfield Oil to deliver DEF

Sep 23, 2009 2:35 PM

With over 900 supply points serving 49 states, Mansfield Oil is poised to deliver diesel exhaust fluid (DEF) to help fleets meet 2010 EPA emissions standards. The company has partnered with Yara International, a leading producer of DEF under the brand name Air1.

“Since 1957, Mansfield’s network of hundreds of supply and distribution points in local markets nationwide has been relied on by leading fleets like Republic/Allied Waste and UPS,” said CEO Michael F. Mansfield Sr. “Yara’s expertise in reducing harmful exhaust chemicals to practically zero is a fact proven out by their strong market position in Europe. We’re proud to bring our customers a proven solution to 2010 emissions compliance through this partnership of expertise and experience.”

Mansfield Oil has set up a call center in Denver to handle orders, which will then be dispatched to a local service center, the company said.